HOME FURNISHINGS EST. 1908

For Immediate Release

It's no secret that times are tough for furniture stores. But fortunately for individuals looking for new furniture this can be a very good time. "With all the store closings and liquidation sales, we needed to provide something inventive and exciting for our customers – not just left-over floor samples and low-quality furniture seen at other stores," says Scott Price, the 4th generation owner of Toms-Price. "In these times we needed to think in a new way about our buying and bring in a different mix of furnishings with aggressively low prices."

The result is the first ever FURNITURE ESTATE SALE. This sprawling market of diverse furniture pieces will be held March 14-22 at the TOMS-PRICE BLOOMINGDALE WAREHOUSE. From its wide network of world markets and factories, Toms-Price has brought together exceptional quality furniture to be sold at unprecedented bargain prices. In fact, most items included in the sale will be priced at or below wholesale. Unlike flea market antiques that may be worn out or broken, browsers will discover, in newly made furniture, the character and intrigue of a great estate sale find. Many of these pieces are one-of-a-kind and different from anything seen at the three regular Toms-Price stores in Lincolnshire, Skokie and Wheaton.

There will be nine days to roam the scene, instead of the typical single weekend of warehouse sales. Some classic pieces included are: chic French casegoods like a Cherry Game Table, manufacturer's suggested retail (MSR) $1,425, our sale $388. A L'Aube Hand-Decorated Mirror on Stand MSR $750, our sale $199. Hand-painted hall chests MSR $987, our sale $399. Truckloads of upholstery including leather sofas MSR $4,649, our sale $1,699 and a wide variety of sofas under $1000. Plus, unusual accents pieces, bedroom, dining room, entertainment, office, colorful upholstery, rugs and oil paintings.
